HUMANITIES COMMITTEE ELECTS 2 NEW MEMBERS

MISSOULA---

The Montana Committee for the Humanities, a statewide organization with home offices at the University of Montana, Missoula, recently elected two new committee members whose terms will extend through December of 1979. They are George Horse Capture of Great Falls and Fred Roach of Terry.

Horse Capture, a member of the Gros Ventre Tribe, Fort Belknap Indian Reservation, is serving as Indian curriculum researcher at the College of Great Falls, and he has done a visual study entitled "Native American Art of the Northern Plains," which was funded by the Ford Foundation. Horse Capture participated in a tribal historian project at the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C., and a summer history project at the Center for the Study of the American Indian at Chicago's Newberry Library. He is a member of the American Indian Historical Society, the National Indian Educational Association and the American Association for State and Local History.

Roach, publisher of the Terry Tribune, taught political science at Claremont Men's College, Claremont, Calif., before assuming the post of dean of continuing education at California State College, San Bernadino. Prior to teaching, he was editor-manager and copublisher of a county-seat newspaper, Sioux County Capital, in Orange City, Iowa. He is a member of the Montana Press Association.

The Montana Committee for the Humanities is supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, a federal agency. MCH members serve without pay, and meet regularly to review grant applications submitted by Montana groups.
